Very much in favor of the bus advertizing

By all means!! Allow private companies to advertise on public busses. This allows the riders, who benefit most from the service, to, in a way, help to pay for the service rendered to them. The people who most benefit should pay a proportional amount, and not object to doing so, of the service they receive. Why should someone else pay for the service they receive? I myself ride the bus from time-to-time and I appreciate the service very much. I have absolutely no objection to the advertizing; much of it is informative. I would add that if a public agency wishes to advertize, that agency should pay the bus company as well. Other U.S. states allow advertizing both on the outside as well as the inside. Frankly, I am surprised that anyone would object to such a measure.
